Lichfield Cathedral. Although one of the smallest, this Cathedral is one of the most beautiful in England and is remarkable for its magnificent west front, the three spires ('Ladies of the Vale'), and its colour, red sandstone. It dates from 1200 A. D. It suffered from siege during the Civil War but was restored in 1661 and 1760, and further restorations were carried out in 1856 and during recent years.

I was so
 rough I would not come down
 so I have decided to go by rail
 to see at Lichfield
